

Product Allocation is what everyone will be talking about...

This new strategy can help maximize your retirement income potential, while at the same time minimize the potential retirement risks.

Using the Product Allocation approach, I'm able to calculate a Retirement Sustainability Quotient also known as RSQ – this is a percentage measure of how likely a mix of investment products can provide you with desired lifetime retirement income.

To learn more about this new strategy visit www.helpmysavingslast.ca. To discuss further, please call me at or e-mail me directly at

Looking forward to hearing from you,

Sincerely,